COMMUNITIES

EVERYTHING MATTERS

At Benchmark Communities, we believe it matters who builds your home. We are a homebuilder with footprints across the West Coast, Pacific Northwest and Southeast states. Designing and building homes is our passion – exceeded only by our desire to have every one of our homeowners be thoroughly satisfied with their Benchmark Communities home.

Our strength is our all-star team of homebuilding professionals who treat each moment in the development, design and building process as an opportunity to do better. Our “Everything Matters” approach to homebuilding begins with design input from real families. From there, we combine energy-efficient construction technology with top quality materials and the industry’s finest craftsmen to create homes and neighborhoods that live as well as they look. The difference is something you’ll notice right away and appreciate for years to come.

When you choose Benchmark Communities, you’ll have peace of mind knowing your new home is backed by the strength and stability of our parent company, UCP – a publicly traded community development leader. You’ll also be privileged to our nationally ranked Customer Relations Team who is here to stay right alongside you and your new home.
